

Attack the Crowd!

The Return of North High Cheerleading

By Libby Haggerty and Meghan Taylor

North Senior High has officially revived the cheerleading team! Many people are excited about this news, while others are indifferent. Two students interested in North High's cheer squad were interviewed regarding their thoughts about the squad. Five neutral parties were interviewed as well to acquire a general opinion of the new team. These are their responses!

The Flyers

12th grade cheer student, Tabitha Rhoades, has loved cheering since she was little. Now, she is excited to continue that passion here at North High! She stated that, "being a cheerleader means being outgoing, a hard worker and a good role model!"

Autumn Tuhy is a 11th grade student at North High who's ready to show school spirit! She's excited to get crowds riled up, lift our team's spirits, and have fun while doing it. She says that being a cheerleader is "one of the best ways to show school spirit!"

The Judges

Sara Westemeier hopes that the team will "show support for (our) teams and school." Similarly, her reaction when hearing about the team was moderately supportive. She said, "A cheer team would be cool." However, she is unable to join the squad due to a lack of time in her busy schedule.

Aaron Michel respects a cheerleader's "athletic ability, seemingly endless energy," and their passion for the sport. Naturally, he expects North High's team to have "a fierce loyalty" to each other. He is looking forward to seeing their "optimism" and "determination" within their squad and performances.

Aaliyah Hesley believes a cheerleader "should be humble, kind and a leader!" Giving people hope and encouraging the team must be their main focus in her eyes. Also, "they should be a good role model" for everyone at North High.

Brett Gulyash takes a neutral stance on the subject of the cheer squad at North High. "They're people," therefore he respects the team. Although, he believes that the team should only perform at sporting events with a high attendance rate.

Katie Milton is extremely passionate about the cheer team. Her mom used to cheer for her high school, along with her cousin! Cheerleading runs in Katie's blood. Unsurprisingly, she has a lot of respect for North High's cheer squad and can't wait to try out!
